

nursing.
it's real. it's life.

your ticket
to the world.

Nursing careers extend far beyond the hospital bedside. Janice Phillips' career has taken her to South America where she conducted breast cancer screening research. To the world of publishing to co-edit a textbook now considered a standard on women's health. To the National Institutes of Health where she oversees exciting Nursing research aimed at improving women's, children's, minorities', environmental and mental health. Want to know more?
